

Abstract of the Disclosure

The present invention provides a barrier for protecting against the penetration of pests, wherein a sticky material is incorporated into the barrier. Further provided is a method for protecting against pest penetration, said method comprising of wrapping an article, product or medium to be protected with the protective barrier of the present invention.